

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGNS TO DISCUSS ENERGY POLICIES IN DISCUSSION FORUM.

WASHINGTON, DC – The Sustainable Energy Institute (SEI) will sponsor a forum on energy policy bringing together representatives of the Democratic presidential candidates. The event will be hosted by the Georgetown Environmental Law Forum at the Georgetown Law Center, McDonough Building, Room 200 (600 New Jersey Av., NW) on November 21st at 5pm. This timely event will give representatives from the campaigns an opportunity to discuss their candidates' views on a wide range of energy issues. Bob Simon, Democratic Staff Director of the Senate Committee on Energy, will moderate the event before an audience of energy and environmental professionals, Capitol Hill staff members, students and members of the media.

Scheduled Panelists Include:

- David Hayes, John Kerry for President Campaign
- Tim Profeta, Joe Lieberman for President Campaign
- Harvey Wasserman, Dennis Kucinich for President Campaign
- Bill Frymoyer, Dick Gephardt for President Campaign
- Curtis Pree, Rev Al Sharpton for President Campaign
- Representative, General Wesley Clark for President Campaign (name to be announced)

Representatives from the Dean, Edwards, and Moseley Braun campaigns have also been invited.

About SEI:

The Sustainable Energy Institute is a non-profit and non-partisan educational organization committed to improving public awareness and understanding worldwide of energy supply and demand options and their implications.